Code of Ethics

I. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates have an ethical responsibility to adults and children who seek their assistance.

A. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will be competent.

1. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will have knowledge of the field of domestic violence, experience and the skills to apply the knowledge.
2. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will constantly update their knowledge and skills.
3. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will not operate outside the limits of their competence, but make referrals or consultations in those areas. Advocates will seek advice and counsel from colleagues and supervisors whenever such consultation is in the best interest of clients.
4. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will understand how many cultural and social norms lead to and condone domestic violence and how those norms impact the individual.

B. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will apprise clients of the following:

1. The array of services offered by the program.
2. The qualifications of the Certified Domestic Abuse Advocate.
3. The expectations of the domestic abuse project.
4. The grievance procedure.
5. The obligation to report child abuse to the Department of Human Services.
6. The limits of confidentiality.

C. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will protect the client's confidentiality within clearly defined limits. These limits will be explained to all clients as follows:

1. Informed, specific consent may be given to the Certified Domestic Abuse Advocate by the client to obtain services for the client from other service providers.
2. The client will be informed that confidentiality cannot be maintained in the following situations:
 - a. When a dependent adult or child has been abused, exploited or neglected.
 - b. When the client's life may be endangered and she/he cannot give consent.
 - c. When the client makes a probable threat or is violent against another person.
3. The client will be informed that confidentiality may not be maintained when a court issues a court order for specific information.

4. The Certified Domestic Abuse Advocate will consider the potential for harm to a client when releasing information even with informed consent.
5. A client will be given the option to remain anonymous within certain limitations, such as, a crisis call or support group member.
6. The client has the right to refuse all or part of services to protect her/his anonymity.

D. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will delineate between work and social relationships and will be aware of the inherent privilege and power differences. The Advocate will never exploit relationships with clients for personal advantage.

1. Prior and/or present social or business relationships with clients require special consideration. The Advocate will, whenever possible, refer these clients to another service provider within the project or the nearest sister project.
2. Because victimization may be a long-term issue, creating personal friendships between an Advocate and a client after receiving services is always inappropriate.
3. Provision of services to persons related by consanguinity or affinity, within the third degree is prohibited.
4. Sexual/romantic relationships with current or former clients is prohibited and is also a crime under Iowa Code Chapter 709.15. (see Appendix E)

E. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will work to increase victim safety; will respect the authority and autonomy of the adult victim to direct her own life; and will hold the perpetrator, not the victim, responsible for the abusive behavior and for stopping the abuse.

1. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will treat the client with respect and honesty in both verbal and nonverbal communication.
2. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will share knowledge they have with clients as it pertains to the client's situation. This may include but is not limited to the dynamics of domestic violence, lethality issues, safety planning, effects on children, and the social and political issues that contribute to the continuance of domestic violence.
3. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will accept what a client tells them about the abuse.
4. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates should withdraw services precipitously only under unusual circumstances, giving careful consideration to all factors in the situation and taking care to minimize possible adverse effects.

5. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates who anticipate termination or interruption of service to clients, should notify those individuals promptly and seek the transfer, referral, or termination of service in relation to the client's needs and preferences.

F. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will fairly distribute time, goods and services among all clients. Advocates will not practice, condone, facilitate or collaborate with any form of discrimination on the basis of sex, race, color, age, sexual orientation, religion, national origin, political beliefs, marital status, mental or physical disability, economic or any other discriminatory basis.

1. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will have knowledge of and respect for cultural backgrounds.
2. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will be knowledgeable and accommodating of disabling conditions.
3. Should one client's needs conflict with another client's needs, Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will act with regard to one client only after promptly referring the other to another qualified service provider.

G. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will assess clients to determine the nature of the abuse, the extent of the abuse and the safety needs of the client. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will do nothing to increase the danger to or harm the client.

H. Certified Domestic Abuse Advocates will be aware of and communicate to the client the historical basis for abuse. They will acknowledge that abuse occurs when there is an imbalance of power and that this situation is maintained and reinforced by our culture.

II. The Certified Domestic Abuse Advocate has an Ethical Responsibility to keep records.
